CMC is a "Right to Title" Professional Designation

Through the Professional and Occupational Associations Registration Act of Alberta, the CMC designation is a recognized professional designation in Alberta; plus 50 countries.

ICMCA (also known as CMC-Alberta) is the professional institute responsible for training, assessing, certifying and monitoring your competency and ethical practice of management consulting. You may apply to become a registrant-member of ICMCA in a number of categories: Student, Associate, Candidate and Certified. Once accepted as a registrant of CMC-Alberta, you also receive a membership in CMC-Canada – the national association of Certified Management Consultants. You also receive reciprocal recognition across Canada.

Why Join/Register with the Institute?

All registration levels have minimum requirements set out in the POARA-CMC Regulations. All registration levels must commit to abiding by our Code of Ethics and Universal Code of Professional Conduct. These two things start you towards a higher level of consulting.

In addition, ICMCA will help all registrants with their professional development, including:

- Mentorship with an experienced, certified member.
- Monthly professional development sessions – both virtual and in-person.
- Networking gatherings to develop relationships with other members and better understand the many options in your management consulting career.
- If you already have a specialty area (i.e.: engineering, social media, finance, HR) we help you round-out your ability to be a fulsome, strategic, management consultant.
- You have access to a multitude of consulting templates and practice resources.
- You can purchase professional liability + E&O insurance far below general rates.

Why Become a Certified Management Consultant?

CMCs are self-regulating consulting professionals who adhere to a standard of ethics and professional responsibility as defined by the Certified Management Consultant global standards. Governed by the Alberta Professionals Act, certified management consultants are accountable to our Institute community which ensures knowledge, competency, annual registration, and addresses any complaints related to conformance to the standards – protecting clients and the public. The CMC designation allows for a TN Visa to work in USA.

Consultants with the CMC designation have proven consulting knowledge, competency and experience in the following management areas:

- Financial Management
- Human Resources Management
- Information Technology Management
- Marketing & Communications Management
- Operations & Business Process Improvement
- Strategic Management, Leadership & Governance
